Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 06 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells and scattered showers today. Much colder by tomorrow.

Today:
Sunny spells throughout the day. Scattered showers too, some on the heavy side, especially for Cornwall and Devon. A band of rain likely to start moving into the northeast towards the end of the day. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain will move southwestwards across many parts, turning to snow across eastern counties before clearly away later. Some icy patches likely later. Cornwall remaining mostly dry. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Sunday:
Much colder on Sunday, with occasional snow flurries possible in the east. Staying dry further west but with largely cloudy skies. Feeling particularly bitter in a strong northeasterly wind. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Monday and Tuesday mostly dry with sunny spells, with just the odd snow shower. Cloudier on Wednesday with the risk of more persistent rain and snow, especially in the south.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.